

DR. MOSELY TO HEAD RESEARCH COUNCIL

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—Dr. Philip E. Mosely, director of the European Institute of Columbia University, has been named chairman of the newly formed Research Council of the Center for Strategic Studies at Georgetown University.

In announcing the appointment today, Admiral Arleigh Burke, the center's director, said that the formation of the Research Council was an indication of the growing strength of the center for strategic studies and its capacity to draw upon an ever-widening range of outstanding talents.

The members of the Research Council are:

Kenneth E. Belieu, former Under Secretary of the Navy.

Mr. Karl H. Cerny, chairman, department of government, Georgetown University.

Dr. Jules Davids, professor of diplomatic history, Georgetown University.

Joseph S. Farland, former Ambassador to the Dominion Republic of Panama.

Dr. Walter B. Laqueur, president, Institute of Contemporary History, London.

Dr. Kurt L. London, director of the Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies, George Washington University.

Dr. Laurence W. Martin, professor of war studies, King's College, University of London.

Dr. Thomas C. Schelling, professor of economics, Center of International Affairs, Harvard University.

Dr. Joseph L. Tryon, associate professor, Department of Economics, Georgetown University.

Dr. Richard L. Walker, director of the Institute of International Studies, University of South Carolina.

Dr. Henry C. Wallich, professor of economics, Yale University.

Dr. Robert E. Ward, professor of political science and director of the Center for Japanese Studies, University of Michigan.

Dr. John C. Warner, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology from 1950-1965.